

5 LEADERSHIP LESSONS FROM QUEEN ELIZABETH II

1. Change Is The Only Thing That Remains Constant

Since 70 years of reign she saw a decline in colonies, she created the common wealth, she saw 14 Prime Ministers, the decline of Great Britain and most importantly problems in her personal life.

“When life seems hard, the courageous do not lie down and accept defeat; instead, they are all the more determined to struggle for a better future.”

2. Responsibilities First

"I cannot lead you into battle, I do not give you laws or administer justice but I can do something else, I can give you my heart and my devotion to these old islands and to all the peoples of our brotherhood of nations"

The Queen always personified the "RESPONSIBILITIES FIRST" mindset during her 70 years of reign. She's always seen her role as her life's main calling and has always put the nation and the common wealth first

3. Creating A Strong Foundation

The Queens family was her biggest strength. Great leadership quality was demonstrated by the Queen. She was also excellent at delegating task and collaborating with the other Royal Family members on tasks.

"I know of no single formula for success, but over the years I have observed that some attributes of leadership are universal, and are often about finding ways of encouraging people to combine their efforts, their talents, their insights, their enthusiasm and their inspiration, to work together."

4. Work – Life Balance

“Each day is a new beginning, I know that the only way to live my life is to try to do what is right, to take the long view, to give of my best in all that the day brings, and to put my trust in God.”

The Queen was always devoted towards her nation, she had a hectic schedule however she always made sure to take out time and do things that she loves. This teaches us how we should follow our passion , hobbies and have a work – life balance

5. Create Your Own Brand

"It has always been easy to hate and destroy. To build and to cherish is much more difficult"

One of the most recognizable faces in the world was that of Queen Elizabeth II. She has succeeded in creating a very strong personal brand for herself, from her distinctive sense of style in clothing to her attitude and the way she speaks and acts over the years.
